It contains works dealing with counseling the Chicano and other Spanish speaking groups; American Indians; Blacks; Asian Americans; and general writings discussing counseling of minorities in general. INTRODUCTION

In recent years there has been an increasing demand for bibliographic tools dealing with ethnic studies and services. Much has been published, but noticeably lacking have been works on counseling ethnic minorities in the United States.

This bibliography reflects literature on counseling minority groups primarily in educational and school setting, though some works discuss counseling minorities in a community setting. Citations in this bibliography were the result of a manual search of numerous indices, including the following: ERIC (Resources in Education), Current Index to Journals in Education (CIJE), PAIS (Public Affairs Information Service), Education Index, Dissertation Abstracts International, Psychological Abstracs, the UCSB subject card catalog, and specialized subject bibliographies from the UCSB ethnic studies library units. The literature search was limited to the period from 1965 to December of 1977.

This compilation, like many bibliographies, is not comprehensive in the sense that bibliographic control for this subject area is decidedly poor. We do hope that this work will nonetheless be of value to the student and practicioner of minority counseling, and, of course, be of value to librarians also.

This work is divided into five main sections. Works dealing with counseling the Chicano and other Spanish speaking groups, American Indians, Blacks, Asian Americans, and general writings discussing counseling of minorities in general. Only two citations relate to ethnic groups outside the four noted above - Alaskan and Haitian. Each section is arranged alphabetically, by author, and is in a standard bibliographic citation format. Library of Congress call numbers are included for works that are a part of the UCSB Library Collection.

The preparation of this bibliography depended on the contributions of several people. Editors were Raquel Quiróz de González and Rosemary M. Stevenson. Graphics were coordinated and prepared by Francois Manchuelle and Jan Kuwata. Bibliographic citation verification was the task of Laura Showalter, Raul Córdova, and Rosemary M. Stevenson. The text was typed by Raquel Quiróz de González.
